

Optimal stopping and prophet problems: convexity and applications

Theodore P. Hill

Department of Mathematics, Georgia Institute of Technology

ABSTRACT

This talk will describe several uses of convexity, e.g., via martingales and Lyapounov's Theorem, to optimal stopping theory in general and prophet problems in particular, and will describe several (non-profit!) applications of prophet inequalities to other optimal-stopping problems.